Foreword

The time will come when we can no longer look to a glorious future. Then we shall derive a great deal of pleasure from memories of the past. As the landscape, Dinky, reminds us of the time when Buena Vista was a mining town, so will our annual, DINKY, remind us of our school days which have come to an end. In years to come may we look through these pages and find them a source of infinite pleasure.

Kling-Jennings.

Buena Vista, Nov. 30 (Special).—Mrs. Frank Massie Jennings announces the marriage of her daughter, Sarah, to Frederick William Kling, Jr., of Roanoke. The ceremony was performed Tuesday evening, November 29, at 10 past 7 o'clock by the Rev. A. W. Taylor, rector of Christ Episcopal church, at his home in Glasgow. There were no attendants, and only members of the immediate families were present. The bride wore a rust colored gown costume with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Kling, who attended Southern University is a graduate of the music department of that institution, and is prominent in musical circles here. Mr. Kling, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Kling, of Roanoke, is a graduate of Roanoke College, and an athletic coach, and instructor at the Parry McCluer high school here, a position he has held for several years. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kling left immediately for New York City for a short bridal trip, after which they will be at home at the Hotel Marlbrook.

Senior Class History

IN THE history of every graduating class events that mean nothing to outsiders, items of little or no importance, stand out prominently to that class. And so, as we realize that our high school days are nearly over, memories of the four years we have spent at P. M. H. S. come back to us.

1928—This date brings memories of our first year in high school. As a group of forty-two we entered as the "Rats" of '28. This year was a happy one. We elected our first class officers, and became a well organized class.

1929—We were Freshmen no longer; we were important Sophomores, with the privilege of razzing the "Rats." How high and mighty we felt!

1930—We were "Jolly Juniors," but more serious in our studies. We had to work hard, but we combined with our labor a bit of fun. We had our first experience before the footlights when we presented the comedy, "Salt Water Taffy." Both the mid-winter party and the moonlight picnic were gala affairs.

1931—We are Seniors! A group of thirty with a high scholastic average. This, our last year of high school, has been a happy and successful one.

We are fortunate to have several new members from Glasgow and Mountain View.

We are now working on our senior play, "Baby Steps Out." Plans for social events are being made. There will probably be a picnic, a hike, and a big spring party. And of course—Commencement!

As the memories of these four joyful years come to us, we think of Mrs. Glass, who has been our home room teacher and interested guide for the past three years. How could we have done without her?

High school for us is almost over, but we shall always remember with pleasure our four years at Parry McCluer High School.

—MARGUERITE DAVIS.

Senior Class Prophecy

ONE night while I was sitting before my bright fire place, Lady Prophecy knelt beside me. She directed me to look into the flames that were leaping and dancing in the fireplace. She promised to give me a vision of all my old classmates of P. M. H. S.

As I gazed into the fire the face of Tate Decker appeared before me. A little voice whispered into my ear that he was the manager of The Times and the World News in Roanoke.

Next I saw Barbara McNeil. She, I learned, was a teacher of business English in National Business College. I can see her yet as she approached me with her sweet, schoolday smile.

Hardly had she vanished before I saw five other friends. My good Lady Prophecy told me that Julia Knight, Earl Leech, Anna Catlett, and "Jimmie" McCormick, accompanied by Hazel Crist, were singing over the radio.

Then the smiling faces of Hite, Henson, and Henkle came before me. They were joint owners of a fashion shop.

My vision seemed to waver a moment—but only a moment, for then I saw the happy face of Tom Janney. To my astonishment I learned that he was married and living in Cuba.

I had hardly recovered my poise after this information until I saw Benson Lowe. He was owner of an extensive farm.

Then I saw four pretty farmerettes—"Bebe" Moore, "Jo" LaRue, Mary Frances Whitesell, and Pauline Jones. They were drinking lemonade and chatting on "Bebe's" front porch.

The next moment I saw Loyd Watts in a chauffeur's uniform. My friend Prophecy whispered that he was driving for Henry Ford.

When I saw "Puddin" Eggleston, I was sure he would be playing football. But no, he owned a large plantation in Georgia.

Whom should I see next but "Dot" Grow! Again the good Lady offered some information and told me that Dorothy was teaching in a kindergarten in Atlanta.

My vision would have been spoiled if Doris Eubank and Carmen Patterson had not been together. There they were before my eyes. Little Dan Cupid climbed upon my knee and whispered that both were married and lived in twin bungalows.

Then I saw a group of familiar faces—"Bob" Anthony, Howard Price, Connie Breeden, Gladys Nuckols, and Ellen Fix. They were all famous athletes. "Bob" and Price were noted football players, while the girls were rival tennis stars.

Next, to my amazement, I saw "Eff" Embree wearing an aviator's helmet. He was a noted pilot.

As my vision continued, I saw Anne Lee Graves and Katherine Bates in ballet costumes. Both were wonderful actresses.

As the flames in my fireplace grew dimmer, Marguerite Davis came before me. She had become a model for Patou, a Parisian designer.

Lady Prophecy was good to me! But in a moment she vanished, the flames died away, and I was left alone—the same old prosaic person, living in the same old prosaic way.

—RUBY SCOTT.

JUNIOR CLASS

Junior Class History

1
September tenth, nineteen and thirty-one,
The Jolly Juniors' work was then begun.
Our home room teacher, Miss Meador, so kind,
In company with her class came up the line.

2
We spent the first few days of our career
In forming classes, and choosing with care
Schedules of studies to carry us through,
Hoping that none would prove our "Waterloo."

3
To eight new Juniors we gave a glad hand.
Thirty-eight strong we bravely made our stand.
We lost one soon—how it grieves us to say,
That sweet "Snooky" Taylor has moved away!

4
The Junior Class was well represented
In basketball; and we were contented,
For hard fought games we won more than a few.
And some of our boys played brave football too.

5
In October the first reports came out.
Our grades in history filled us with doubt;
But Miss Mann simply saved our self respect
By saying, "You haven't the method yet."

6
November found us quite busy and gay
As we chose the cast for the Junior play.
To our history club credit is due
For aiding the class by weekly review.

7
December's holiday preparation
Could not be crushed by the composition
Assigned to our class, to have right on hand,
For credit upon our mid-term "exam."

8
A wailing went up from the Juniors bold,
Over nine book reports, verbally told;
But our spirits were raised the eighteenth day
By the great success of the Junior play.

9
Christmas! We parted jolly and merry,
With no assignments to cause a worry.
Happy New Year! Then we started to cram,
To be ready for the mid-term "exam."

10
But all during those busy days we planned,
And put on a splendid chapel program,
Hon'ring one great in the South, you'll agree,
When you know that one was Robert E.
Lee.

11
Our January "exams." soon were done.
"And now we'll get to work," resolved each one.
"We must pass them again the last of May,
If we hope to walk in the Senior way."

12
The time soon came for the class to decide
As to the ring that would give us most pride.
Then Mr. Kling wisely helped us select
A handsome ring with a beautiful set.

13
February brought its composition
On Washington, Father of the Nation.
In the Washington Bi-centennial play
We, the Jolly Juniors, carried the day.

14
A-hah! The stormy March arrived at last,
And our jolly good times were passing fast.
The loss of two Juniors made us feel blue—
Dear Lucille Edwards, and Billy Seay, too.

15
For one event we all grew quite hearty;
Gayly we flocked to the Junior party.
'Neath April's bright sky, on the campus
green,
We cheered for our boys on the baseball team.

16
May brings the dates of our final "exams."
Once more every student studies and crams.
We're determined to pass, so we can be
Full, dignified Seniors in thirty-three.

17
'Tis the last day of school! We smile; we sigh;
Our jolly hearts ache as we say, "Goodbye."
We have all been good sports the whole year through,
And we thank our teachers that they have too.

—JOSEPHINE ANNE JONES.

Baseball Squad, 1932

F. W. KLING, JR. .... Coach

Although there are no letter men left from last year, the prospects for a baseball team seem very favorable. Bob Anthony, Puddin' Eggleston, and Lewis Paxton are being groomed to alternate the catching and pitching assignments.

Besides the three already mentioned, other prospective candidates are:

GIDEON BAUGHER

MADISON MCKEE

TAP CUNNINGHAM

GWYNN MERRITT

BOOTS DAVIS

JOE PARRENT

TOM JANNEY

HOWARD PRICE

BOB LONG

VERNON STRICKLER

KENNETH WAGNER

Resume of Girls' Basketball, 1931

ON FRIDAY, December 4th, the Girls' Basketball Team of Parry McCluer High School closed its 1931 season by defeating Covington High School by a score of 13 to 11. The game, a hard fought one from start to finish, was played at Covington. The line-up for Parry McCluer was as follows: Winnie Rogers and Lucille Edwards, forwards; Hilda Henson and Ruth Henkle, guards, with Mildred Ridings substituting for Henkle; Myrtle Worley and Frances Ridings, center.

Because the basketball season has been an unusually succesful one for Parry McCluer High, it is interesting to review the 1931 schedule and results.

Parry McCluer High opened her basketball season when she met Glasgow on the local court. The score, which was in favor of Glasgow, was 7 to 6.

The second game with Glasgow was played on the Glasgow court. The score was 14 to 7, in favor of Parry McCluer.

In a game with a town team from Glasgow, Parry McCluer won by a score of 20 to 5.

The next two games were with Big Island. Big Island defeated Perry McCluer by a score of 14 to 12 at Big Island. The score of the second game, which was at Buena Vista, was 14 to 10 in favor of Big Island.

On December 2nd, Parry McCluer won a brilliant victory over Lexington High School when she defeated her old rival by a score of 25 to 14.

Then, as a crowning glory for a hard working, patient team, came the Covington game when Parry McCluer took the honors, and, in a spectacular fashion, ended her 1931 basketball season.

The final score for Parry McCluer is: five games won, and three games lost.

Miss Bessie Meador, coach of the 1931 girls' basketball team, deserves great praise for the team's success.

Jokes

Tate Decker (watching a chicken picking its way out of an egg shell): "How curious those things look coming out of a shell!"

Charlie Decker: "I wonder how he got in there."

Woodrow Gilbert: "Mr. Kling, what keeps us from falling off the face of the earth when we are upside down?"

Mr. Kling: "The law of gravity."

Woodrow: "What happened before the law of gravity was passed?"

Frances Whitesell: "Pauline has a singular voice."

Bebe Moore: "Thank Heavens, it isn't plural."

Mr. Gulley: "How do you want your hair cut?"

Stephen Embree: "Just like Effingham's—with a hole on top."

Miss Turner: "Did you ever see the Catskill Mountains?"

Blair Cook: "No, but I've seen the cats kill mice."

Lewis Updike: "My dad has Washington's watch."

Ralph Grow: "That's nothing—my daddy has Adam's apple."

Mrs. McKee: "Hope, I can't find your night-gown; I guess you'll have to wear your sister's tonight."

Hope: "What? Wear a girl's. I'd rather go to bed raw."

Jimmie: "What would you thing if I threw you a kiss?"

Barbara: "I'd think you were the laziest boy I ever saw."

Stafford Price: "Did you hear about the accident Nita Dixon had yesterday?"

Lawrence Patterson: "What was it?"

Stafford: "Well, her face lit up with a smile and the powder exploded."

Miss Meador: "How many of you are going to the junior play?"

Bunny Thurston: "I'll be there if you leave a window open."

Mrs. Dickinson: "Tom, why can't you be a gentleman like James McCormick? He goes home in the evening, milks the cows, helps his mother cook, and does part of the house work."

Tom: "Well, Mother, that would interfere with my future."

Mr. Dickinson (smiling proudly): "What are you planning to be?"

Tom: "A husband."

Madison McKee (in Latin class): "Miss Guill, the Romans certainly used poor English, didn't they?"

Ralph Grow: "Did you know everybody's talking about Wheeling, West Virginia?"

Elwood Simpson: "Yeah, but that's nothing. They're talking about Bunningham in Alabama."

Mrs. Gibson (telephoning the gas company): "This is Mrs. J. W. Gibson in Buena Vista. We've decided to have gas installed. Please come over to see us as soon as you can."

Gas Man: "What is your house number?"

Mrs. Gibson: "My house number! Oh, yes! Wait a minute until I can go out on the porch and look."
